Feather 1 Abra Ebner

Feather by Abra Ebner was definitely a slow starter for me, like, the first fifty pages slow. After it finally started moving, the intrigue kicked in and I was reading furiously. The concept of this book is poetic and enchanting, which ranks high on my "subject matters to read" list.

review 1: It was a great young adult entertaining book. I like these types of books occasionally because they don't really challenge you and you can just enjoy it. It's a good distraction. What I hope comes from these types of books is that they become attractive to those that perhaps don't like books written by dead white men and that's okay.
