Eternal Curse On The Reader

Eternal return (also known as eternal recurrence) is a theory that the universe and all existence and energy has been recurring, and will continue to recur, in a self-similar form an infinite number of times across infinite time or space. The theory is found in Indian philosophy and in ancient Egypt and was subsequently taken up by the Pythagoreans and Stoics.

Preface. A thought conceived but not expressed is at best only an unborn child, not only without any influence on the world, but of whose very existence the world may be unconscious; but once brought forth it becomes part of the living working universe, to work there its appointed season, and possibly to leave its mark for good or evil on all successive time.

A covenant in the Near East is an unequal relationship between a "greater" party and a "lesser" party. Note the difference between a contract and a covenant: "a contract generally involves only one part of a person, such as a skill, while a covenant involves the person's total being." (Padfield,1) In the written exchange between God and Abram in Genesis chapters 15 and 17, Abram asks God to ...

mrbrucewayne63 at gmail I have a Dake Bible and I agree. Jesus offered us the ability to become Son's of God which would include immortality. But what I find more interesting is what appears to me to be a concerted effort to keep knowlege of Angels and the pre-adamite world away from our people: and this can be disturbing when we realize that the Catholic church was at the helm in the effort ...

Verse 13. - Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the Law (Ἐριστὸς ἡμᾶς ἐξηγόρασεν ἐκ τῆς κατάρας τοῦ νόμου); Christ bought us off from the curse of the Law. The position of the word "Christ" in the Greek, heading the sentence, makes it emphatic - Christ; he alone; no means offered by the Law hath procured justification for the sinner.
