Every year, usually in summer, I make the Frugal Gourmet's sesame chicken salad. I use his plausibly Chinese method for poaching, which involves turning off the heat under the water and letting the chicken sit for an hour. Then I mix the meat with sesame oil and tahini, both of which I bought and used for the first time decades ago for this very recipe, and serve it to cries of admiration.

Frugal folks know it: Interest on consumer debt is a tax people pay for living beyond their means. And while a credit card can save the day from time-to-time, embracing easy credit as a way to pad your lifestyle can have disastrous consequences. Interest and other charges will bleed your budget and choke your chances at real financial security.
